The visit of St. Louis Cardinals star slugger Matt Holliday to Korean Air and KFX before the game Wednesday in Busan was "a first-time experience" for the national team coach in charge of the game. South Korea faced China in a double-header on Wednesday at the Busan International Baseball Stadium in Busan on the east coast. The game marked the first head coach election in the history of the game in South Korea. "It is a first-time experience to see a team of this size," KBS Sports reported. "It is the first time to meet a foreigner at the top level of baseball in South Korea. It is our first time to have a baseball game with the Americans." The Chinese team stood out with players wearing dark-colored pants and socks and one wore a white knee cover during the game. "There is no such thing as the manager of the national team," said former player and coach Lee Kwang-kuk. "The job of the national team manager is to get the best team, and that is all." For KONYEOLUS and GROOVES, the Chinese players had a word of advice for their opponents. "The Chinese team definitely have players who can hit a ball," said KONYEOLUS. GROOVES thought that the team was a little nervous, but thought that they would overcome the fears. "I think the Chinese will approach this game like a two-day tour." GROOVES said. "I hope they can learn from Korean culture and make a good impression. I hope they can win the game."
