I have a problem with this code: `$('#check').click(function () { var fileSize = 102400; if ($('#imgOverlay').width() > fileSize) { $('#imgOverlay').removeAttr('style'); } });` This code is in the document ready function, and it does not want to remove the background. I tried replacing `$('#imgOverlay')` with `document.getElementById('imgOverlay')` and it still does not work. A: I am assuming that you are referencing to an element with the ID `imgOverlay`, not an element with the class `imgOverlay`. Try `$("#imgOverlay").removeAttr("style"); this._disconnect();` } else if (isIOS8_apps()) { `this._reconnect();` } else { `this._disconnect();` } } `_reconnect()` { if (!this._client.isConnected) { `this._client.connect();` this.once('error', callback); } } `_disconnect()` { if (this._client.isConnected) { `this._client.close();` this.off('error', callback); } } } export function createRedis(url, options) { return new Redis(url, options); } Q: How to open an excel file in a new excel window? I have a button in excel which opens a file using the code below `this.Workbook.Worksheets("Worksheet").Worksheets("Headings").Cells.HorizontalAlignment = x`
